Park at Galtrigill road end. A rough moorland and cliff top walk around Dunvegan Head, passing a natural arch and the Biod an Athair cliff, the highest point on Skye's sea cliffs. Pathless walk across rough moor land around Dunvegan Head. Near Galtrigill road end is a ruined village with 'The Manners Stone', a square flat stone resting on boulders at seat height. Used, supposedly, to improve the manners of naughty children, but sit on it a while and ask your question and see what wisdom you get. Please respect gates and fences around this working farm. Nearby, visible from the road through Borreraig, is the Cairn to the MacCrimmons, the famous pipers to the Clan MacLeod.
